THE TOP 300 EMPLOYERS

We crunched the numbers to come up with our annual list of major employers in the Inland Empire.

Who are the biggest employers in the Inland Empire? Each year, we embark on a quest to find out, checking with employers themselves, contacting the cities and other public agencies, and reviewing public records to get the most current numbers possible. It's not an easy task because businesses tally their numbers differently, and not everyone wants to share information. Still, we've come up with a list that breaks down employment figures by city, with some additional private and public entities. The top 10 employers by city is based on each city's most recent Annual Comprehensive Financial Reports (ACFR). Cities that did not list their principal employers in the ACFR are not included in the city list.
